

Investigation Summary Report

Southern Colonial Bed & Breakfast Winnfield, LA

HISTORY

Unfortunately, not much history was recovered on the beautiful Southern Colonial Bed & Breakfast, located in historic Winnfield, La. The homeowner reported several unexplainable events which took place, such as strange noises and, most commonly, items being removed from guests' rooms. Could we be dealing with a sticky fingered ghost?

INVESTIGATION

A small group of only four investigators attended with the hopes of finding proof of a haunting, or at the bare minimum, at least some unexplainable event. The usual 4-camera DVR was ran through the home, along with voice recorders and EMF meters. Unfortunately, the night was uneventful for our members, as no substantial evidence was recovered. However, during a prior preliminary walk-through, a sensitive member of the group did pick up on the presence of an elderly female, yet we were unable to obtain concrete proof of her "presence". The question still remains: Is the Southern Colonial B&B haunted? If we strictly determine the answer to that question based solely on our findings, or lack thereof, the answer is no. However, we all know no location is active on every night of the week. It is this reason we always try and conduct a follow up investigation, and with the help of the gracious homeowner, hopefully we can accomplish this one day.
