HISTORY/INVESTIGATION

The renters of this adorable little country home had been complaining of serious activity. The wonderful lady welcomed us into her home with open arms but it was soon very clear to us that she was being very much affected by this entity. This poor woman was shaking at every noise and every sound. We couldn't help but feel pity for her.

The call our case manager received was right off the back frightening. This sweet lady told the case manager of her breaking moment with the spirit. One evening the couple had been watching tv and some very terrifying words appeared on the screen. She began telling him that her animals were in constant fear. The cat was brought to the animal emergency but as soon as they arrived with the cat it went back to its self. The wife said many times how she is having a horrible time sleeping because of the scratching on the walls and ceiling. The husband was also complaining of a horrid smell as if meat had been rotting for days in the hot sun. Upon walking in this cute cozy home you couldn't help but see and feel how sweet and pretty it was but that you were not alone.

After setting up our equipment one of our team members returned to the kitchen to grab something out of their bag and couldn't help but notice the most horrible foul smell imaginable. The first room that was investigated in was the "guest room". It was a small but spacious room. We didn't realize that we had caught anything until later reviewing. The team members were asking questions in the master bedroom. One question asked was "would you like us to leave?" and soon after on a digital recorder placed in the guest room a loud "no" was captured. Soon after an hour or so the team moved into two different rooms. The final room visited was the laundry room. The team members also began asking names of the spirits and to everyone's amazement a voice came through with the name "Michael". One team member asked the wife if she knew of a "Michael". She said that the man whom built the home had a son named "Michael". Michael apparently died at a young age of an incurable virus. Many more voices came through though we couldn't get a name out of them. But we were grateful for the ones that did speak with Lapsirits. Later in the evening two investigators were left alone in the master bedroom. They were unaware that everyone in the kitchen had witnessed a shadow on the wall in the master bedroom.

Entering the laundry room a team member asked “do you know Shannon “the medium””? And to everyone shock a very clear reply came through the Spirit box. “Unfortunately” You can imagine the laughter and shock that took place from everyone in the room. The wife soon asked if she may ask questions. She began saying things like “you are not welcome here” “we don’t want you here”. Soon after, the energy in the room was still. A very calm feeling fell over everyone, almost a relieving feeling that whatever or whomever was there had left. We will always be grateful for the chance to investigate that wonderful home.
